Just added the cover artwork for "Two Plays, On Revenge and History" along with the certificate I got for winning "Best First Time Filmmaker in a Long Feature Film," to the "venue" page. Have a look and stay true to form, when things get rough. Easy I say, because I'm made of money and also full of magical thoughts.

Me and My Concerns, Three Letters That Develop Sub-Text to Larger Developments Here and Abroad

My recent concerns that stem from social stability and public miscommunication inspired me to write a letter (to be honest, I sent a letter that was pre-loaded for a movement). Surprisingly, I got a well-meaning response from Senator Diane Feinstein in response to the letter, one that addressed many of the concerns that can be touched upon through sentiment. The ideas within the response letter did touch upon the sentiments of the country but I do not feel that they touched upon my concern when writing the letter that I sent for the movement. Senator Feinstein stated her concerns over, "lasting peace," but what concerns me is that a clandestine strategy will be used to deny "lasting peace," until an ill-represented outcome takes place.

The letter that I sent was in response to the Israel-Palestine conflict taking place along the Gaza Strip. The Gaza Strip lies along the Eastern Mediterranean in modern day Israel and is disputed land along as with a chunk of land to the North East (originally posted on 5/29/2021 as "North West", which was my mistake) of the Gaza Strip known as the West Bank. The land fell into dispute around the turn of the 20th century and has been engaged by many different people since then to include Britain and Israel. The land is rich in historical points of reference to include even the famous city of Ashdod referenced in the Torah (Old Testament).

The letter I received from Senator Feinstein was preceded by an email from another Senator as sub-text to a story that was beginning to develop. Senator Alex Padilla stated, "My office has received your letter, and we will review it and respond as quickly as we can."

To be clear, the gist of the letter I wrote through my motives is as follows, if a clandestine strategy is used to defeat Palestine through Israel, I am on Palestine's side. A clandestine strategy in Palestine concerns me as an American. Clandestine strategies concern me as a person as well. What happens to the Palestine people will affect me as an American if a clandestine strategy is used to win; in all fairness, I believe Hamas is using clandestine strategies as well and somewhere in the middle is Palestine so I sent a letter in support of Palestine because they appear to be non-strategic and thus, not an opponent or a threat. The rest can be inferred from reading. Have a look for yourself.

Have a look. I decided to restore the old journal from my old website. Every few years, about thirteen pages or so, I like to turn the page. I turned the page so I thought I'd restore the older journal as well to give the pages a little emphasis. Also, I posted a new song in the side bar. It is a very good picture of me with maybe one or two small flaws in the performance but the song is accurate as far as how good I am right now in music.

06/10/2021

This is a special day aside from my birthday. Come and see me as I would see myself because I went to school here to get my B.A. in literature from ASU. I am a Sun Devil baby! I am always grateful for a little coverage: have a look and see for yourself. Also-

Join me in knowing this, that there is always a future, always, in knowing the truth. Be as smart as possible and things just might work out. B-Cool, over and out.

So Many Questions, By Brandon Lund

07/05/2021

Regarding Topics Neither Crime Nor Government, They are Polite Behavior (or Politics); A Passage Intended to Address the Intelligence Community

Do you believe it is fair that clandestine figures get to do things that are neither crime nor government that could be criticized by the public if they knew? Do you think that the ego of a clandestine figure should be criticized by public scrutiny? Furthermore, do you believe the state has the right to guard the ego of a clandestine figure? And, do you believe that the point of view of a clandestine figure should be kept secret if you do not reveal their identity? Why can't I direct an insult toward your agency if the identity of your operative is not compromised? My point? You cannot guard the ego of a person through strength of arms. Your ego can only be guarded by, (pst. hey, over here), A loin-cloth...is that understood? Cloth over your private parts is the only way to protect your ego, also known as the way you feel about yourself.

And keep an eye out for topics on music in the future as well. New developments and time for people to cool off are my feelings on current events and the affairs of many and all. I added sheet music to two songs in the side bar to the "Theater page." "Singing On the Road," is my first best song so I wrote it down so I could have a universal copy of the song.

7/10/2021

Who would like to join me on this journey? Song 3 on the "Theater/Sheet Music" is a song that I have worked on since I was a teenager. I decided to put it here in my journal because it is like so many other things that mean something to you when it is auto-biographical. It was also very hard to play but I included a recording below in case you would like to hear it from ME.

7/19/2021

Whew! I thought I'd do a little number crunching for riddleversecomics.com according to Askimet. I do not mind releasing this information which pertains to my business online in terms of success. This is a good PDF if you would like a little more insight regarding the amount of comments I have received online and whether or not they are high quality or legitimate. Also, I will be posting another letter online some time in the near future regarding further developments into my correspondence with politicians in regards to the letter I wrote concerning developments along the Gaza Strip.

When my mind fills to the brim
With the idea of rhythm

I am empowered to pick
Because the beat of music is linguistic.
Be it up down off or on
The beat of music must be agreed upon
As the rule:
Which means, to pick a note seems to imply
A variable.

Hello America and friends, here and abroad. I've decided to post something that I would like to share because it is comedy. I want you to enjoy the comical tone and the way that I look (Me, not you) in the song. I think I look funny. I am also going to post new poetry soon that is similar. I have been re-reading Shakespeare and I wanted follow through with a few ideas I've learned from the Tragedy of King Lear.

To Sing As King By Brandon Lund

Disclaimer 1, declaration of personal beliefs of the author, intended to be a point of view:

I believe the United States is a puppet state (also known as an auxiliary state or a proxy state) of Afghanistan (with help from Saudi Arabia) and that Germanic People are led through history by Indo-European spies (people from the Indus Valley) and middle eastern spies as well as a group known as White people, who are a mixture of Germanic People and Indo-European spies as their leadership. That white people are barbarians (in the historical sense of the word) who are led through history by foreigners who have civilizations that go back thousands of years using spies as their leadership. So there, I said it. Now, I would like to discuss political allies further AFTER I have organized history according to my point of view.

Now, pause right there buddy. What you are saying, Brandon, is wrong! Though it is only your point of view. However, I am not wrong because this is still a record of things that WERE said, instead of NOT said. And if all you did was say it, then you did not DO anything wrong. What you said may be wrong, but what you say is important. Then, if so conflicted foolish boy, please continue:

Disclaimer 2, author admits that his point of view is wrong; but a record of things that were said still developed through history:

Nice job idiots, you just told the world how to destroy the country by ignoring the developments that went into preventing the collapse of a building that should have been condemned. Did I just do something by saying this out loud? No I didn't.

Does anyone else feel that the condo collapse in Miami is a failure to protect the country's leadership, not as a caring citizen, but as an eyewitness to incompetence? If I saw it, then I saw it. If I saw it, then I must say something. Everyone can see the F-ing thing collapse.

Though apparently the government takes the incident lightly, technically you could kill the country's leadership with a building that collapses on a person or people.

As far as I'm concerned I hope the secret service or the intelligence community gets those dipshits in Congress killed someday by letting something stupid happen to them also. Doesn't the government believe in using building inspectors?

Nice work Capitol Hill, you just failed to lead the country through protecting leadership because you cannot prove you can protect even your own people. There, I said it AGAIN.

Now, here you go Brandon Lund. The following is not just your point of view. It is a point that is tasteful and informative. It does not polarize people it gives them a chance to respond because there is a basis for comparison. Therefore, you are right this time. Sorry buddy, as much as you 'd like to win, the prior two are highly speculative. Shove it voice of conscience, I'm just saying...

America, and the world, who has ever heard the story of John Bunyan? Famous author of Pilgrim's Progress? Do you think John Bunyan did 12 years in prison for preaching the bible because those who serve in clandestine roles were recruited and highly incentivized with ideas such as "someday, you'll get to be a dictator of my puppet state; and we cannot group John Bunyan through a lie (propaganda); so let's throw him in prison?" just a question I wanted to address regarding the great author John Bunyan. Do you think that the government that was present in the colonies at the time threw John Bunyan in prison because they could not group him through state sponsored propaganda? With ideas such as "witchcraft," "urban myth," and the mythology in general surrounding the frontier. John Bunyan was a preacher so his beliefs would have been a well-established "higher power," through the bible. This is just a question I wanted to declare because I think it is an important point of reference for the "country," because that's a human rights issue that is still discussed. In all fairness, Paul Bunyan believes in the frontier. John Bunyan believes in Christianity through Jesus. A little basis for comparison to think about in all the confusing subtext implied through those in government.

My overall point is that I do not believe I am alone in some of the developments that we see in the country and world at large as of here and now but, knowing this, sometimes I too only have my point of view. My question to the reader is this, did YOU say the right thing to history?

07/29/2021

I was a trooper once...enough said? I just posted a new poem that says a lot about me and my point of view when it comes to my own personal history that co-insides with government. Enough said on that—You can probably tell a doozy to your enemy through Me as an Airman. Ha, ha, ha. My point is that it might take you about twenty years to figure out your enlistment if you ever decide to do something like that. I served in the military once upon a time which means that I have an enlistment that is still pretty fresh in the eyes of history. Why not follow me people? Just, kidding; except for the part about that...just...happened; nothing.

Does anyone else think that the Persian Gulf War, September 11, 2001, and the pandemic novel-virus all have a suspiciously back and forth, ebb and flow feel to them? I think you are in the middle of a God damn combat theatre America (which means someone may have fought their way this far into what is now a combat theater). Here is a list of my political-allies to keep an eye on:

Disclaimer 3, these are my historical observations, always know that Mr. Chuckles is right around the corner if you need him. Feel free to laugh at me because some of this is not on the books yet. What's that mean? That if there are no laws then it could be considered babble or some sort of rationale (something I believe I can see but cannot fully grasp except through linguistics)...

Syria, Russia, Pakistan

(Future research in this group of allies: Cuba, Iraq)

Saudi Arabia, United States of America, Afghanistan

(future research in this group of allies: France, England, Spain, India)

Taiwan (China), Japan, Germany

(Future research in this group of allies: Italy...)

Disclaimer 4, dramatic outburst of the author record and shared and, in doing so, many things that may not be true were still divulged:

God damn you for making me say this, God damn you (long pause though less dramatic, more convincing) I was a trooper once. Do you think you can fool many from within by cutting out the middle-man such as lower-level leadership in order to make someone like humble Airmen Brandon Lund look like a religious figure using high-ranking leadership, now I want to say this, using the CIA as middle men in order to tell a convincing lie to those within. Through a story of without, Brandon looks like Jesus next to a colonel or someone super high. Does that make sense to you? Don't threaten to rip me to pieces because you believe something that isn't true. God damn it, that is all I wanted to say. Obviously, this is just how I feel: you stupid idiots believe something that isn't true, including, hey, some of the most important people in the world including those in government. You will not know Me from within, you will only know Me from without because (pst. hey) I cut out the middle-man in order to play God! You stupid bastards, you could place every other word in this post in bold text and that would be close to how I feel sometimes. The stupid agents in the CIA are going to get us all killed by the smart ones. There I said it; obviously, these are just my thoughts and feelings. Like you idiots are going to get some high-level clearance because some else had to tell you the answer. Tremendous knowledge, my @$#!

Hello America, and friends here and abroad. Mr. Chuckles the Clown here...who would like to see me divulge state secrets that were given to me through a leak who was using a performance that was unconvincing? This is what the Leak said to me, so to speak, in a language that was unconvincing and therefore just plain rude:

state secret 1: You will not know Me through stage light, you will only know Me through a clearance (or when you are free and clear) because I am a director. I am also not progressive, if you were wondering, through a sequel. In fact, you will see Me grow up, here and now.

state secret 2: Though I am from the country, I made it big in the city. Cue song and dance. And I am a giant now (because I grew up here also) even though I do not see myself as a Star.

state secret 3: I am often cast as a Star and I am one of many on screen.

Who would like to see me physically cast as a star instead of become one through success? Or who would like to see me actually grow up before your eyes instead of grow up through age? Who would like to see me demonstrate tremendous knowledge through stage light instead of awareness of the truth through something provable? Like a document or a file? Something that can be used instead of just thought about.

Mr.Chuckles is on his way to the big red nose factory now where I can dawn my clownish appearance for all of history. Righty-o! Righty-o! Righty-o!

Over and out.

I mentioned earlier that I would post the response letter to a conversation I was currently having with politicians regarding developments in the Middle East through the Gaza Strip. Just following through with the developments that go into staying/keeping informed. Also, I will probably be posting a new article soon and a page from one of the comics I sell through my seller's permit. I have doodles also that I made of the President. But I will never share them without applause. He, he (Wink).

There were many things in Representative Panetta's letter that warmed my heart and settled my nerves. Great things to say to the people are relief and nonviolence are strategies. However, I did not agree with things said such as "new governments," are needed to solve problems, especially while people are fighting, because it implies all must be lost therefore we should move forward with a blank slate. No, no, no, my dear sir, all is not lost. Much can be said and salvaged from any group of people. Many things can and will be said that should be heard. A new government is often just lip service and the tip of the iceberg to larger mechanisms of politics that are currently taking place. "I will tell my own story to history through government" is the right answer, thank you very much. And I do thank you because the letter is very polite.

I've decided to leak this one about myself because ha, ha, ha, I contracted COVID-19; so this is my official position on the pandemic because my little tirade is officially over: The response to COVID-19 is state-sponsored propaganda but the virus is real. It is not a fictitious ailment but the circumstances surrounding the virus I believe are a public lie told by the state. So there I said it. Again, these are my observations through social science and linguistics. They are not my observations through legal precedent so keep your eyes out people. You're allowed to prove a point and wonder while history and the laws develop. I'm officially a bummed out dude so there, I said it again.

Also, I'm making a new page public. It is a page from my old website called "studies." It's just a place for me to tell a story about art that has served an important role in my life. Sheesh, go lie down Brandon.

Check out new page, "Skits/Broadcasting." I was an actor once upon a time but that was high school. I also posted new poetry into "online poems" because I learned a new word from Jonne Donne's poetry that helped me understand an idea that is important. The word is "Idios," which comes from Greek and it means, "all my own; or private."

Who Are They, by Brandon Lund

I decided to post a new song as a widget because I added the sheet music to the "Theater/Sheet Music," page so I thought an audio recording of the song would be nice. The music is part of a song book that I am working on and it is really the only titled piece that I have but like any book when chapters grow or pages are finished its nice give them a little exposure if they are complete thoughts. Enjoy the music along with a little bit of goodness gracious my life is doing well right now.

09/29/2021

I've decided to post two new commands to the foreign legion here in my journal along with the one in the sidebar. This is by and large just my personality with a little fantasy mixed in. After the commands to the foreign legion I wrote a few small opinions that are focused through social science. Except for the last one, which is just my opinion (the call to history passage). Always remember, readers, I babble now a little bit online because I believe I can see clandestine strategies in the public. There I said it and what I said is all I can say, really.

Passage 1:

Command #1 To Be Read to the Foreign Legion Who Would Omit Important Information in Order to Play God

"You will not know Me from without, you will only know Me in good-faith because I cut out Jesus this time also in order to employ a combatant so that I can bury You someday alongside your Myth."

Command #2 also to be read to the foreign legion who would imply resistance is futile

"You will not know Me from without, you will only know Me from within when I burn your towns and cities through combat because my tomahawk is also a hand-axe and fuel comes from nature."

Passage 2:

After turning on to Lemon Rd. continue on to Fresh Fruit Alley and say Hello, many salutations from Mr. Chuckles the Clown.

I live in Santa Cruz CA where the lemon trees grow and the sun often shines. My advice to you is why not take a wrong turn down "fresh fruit ally?" Show up and have a lemon on me. People just show up in Santa Cruz all the time but it takes a special person to show up for the fresh fruit. Come on down and enjoy a fresh lemon from the lemon tree. My point is that fresh fruit arrives daily here on fresh fruit alley.

Passage 3:

A word to the wise and why not listen up? I'm not misleading anyone. I'm trying to tell YOU something about your ego that will bother you later on in life if you ignore history: whatever doesn't kill you makes you stronger, but whatever doesn't break your heart will make you wiser. So don't break my heart with a myth that I don't care about that much in the first place. If it doesn't break my heart, then don't tell me a story about yourselves. Ha ha ha. The story I don't value usually means that it didn't really hurt my feelings when you told it. I'm a person TOO so I think a little indecent insult is fair: FUBFDPS. I don't really care about the story that doesn't involve my name! Now I am addressing he or she that invents myth through government so, again: FUBFDPS. I'd share more of my opinion if you shared more than just your loser myth.

Passage 4:

Call to History, addressed to those who would complain about their choices including government

If you believe in accepting the call to history, then why would you complain about your choices to the public? Like you are a hero because you were altered by your favorite villain, the one that really stands out in your mind. The one no one is allowed to talk about even through polite behavior because he or she is special. Your special villain, the one that altered you. I'll get that laughter out of you even if I have to take a "super-punch" from those who would complain, as if you are in charge because the special person in your life is, ha ha ha, a "villain." (There, you said what you said, now shut-up, Brandon). (Pst. I'm just addressing clandestine figures. Okay? You can mobilize the gestapo with spies who are still in the closet. There I said it. That's it. That's all I wanted to say-wink, wink-This is what the world, especially government, says to me: I cannot tell a lie because of my sexuality...things that eventually, I must share because the sub-text is consistently shared with me. B-Cool, Over and out.)

Behind Me Now Is My Woe, By Brandon Lund

Phone-Me, America, One and All

What if the technology of the future was phone technology? Just as Photoshop is layered images, what if music was layered through software that has been used to create a phone-like voice? Did you know that you can re-assemble your voice through layering music alpha-numerically? Most people have seen a four-track player but that is not alpha-numerically assembled. That is composition through performance. How about trying it like this: sing a song (any song will do, make it your favorite; fine by me) then reassemble the same exact lyrics artfully; which means, write a new song with the same exact words and the same exact rhythm and the same exact melody one on top of the other and you can reassemble your voice through music, again, alpha-numerically. How about that America? Let me do you a favor. This is what you will see someday when the time is right, trust me, a re-assembled version of your voice through music that has been layered alpha-numerically. It is going to be the next big thing...in the future! I studied linguistics in college, I love phonemes.

11/01/2021

I've decided to post two new songs because I wanted to ask a question, which do you like more? Recorded Music or Composed Music? Who doesn't want to be charismatic, charming, and eventful? Who doesn't want to be brilliant, moody, misunderstood? The song "Big Dollar Bill," is me being soulful and charismatic with music, singing to express my feelings and it is an accurate picture of me as a recording artist. The song "Beautiful Night Song," is me when I am moody and misunderstood. I wrote it down with music software then recorded it and it is a good picture of me as a composer for a general reader (who doesn't wish they had symphonic range in music?) Here is me comparing myself as a composer to me as a recording artist. Its always fun to give yourself rules to break. I obviously like both.

Shem On You Noah!

I wanted to do another one of these because I am a humorist/satirist as a poet but I also dabble in stand-up comedy, though my script is small. A humorist usually reveals something serious that is taking place, most often politically, using humor as a device. A comedian is an artist through social science. The idea for this post comes from scripture. I finished reading the Qu'ran a few months ago and I wanted to go back and compare it to the Bible. I am credential to compare scripture to other scripture, linguistically, through my degree in order to see where the books do and do not hold water in comparison to each other. I discovered something about the Prophet Noah through the book of Genesis that I found fascinating as a linguistic observation through his child, Shem. I wanted to reveal this observation as a humorist in comparison to a stand-up comedian.

(Cough, Nod, Wink) Survive

I saw, in a vision, a string of crimes across the country. I saw, in this vision, people controlling historically relevant markets and doing good, hopefully, at holding on to those markets as markets develop (who else has or has not seen such aberrant behavior?) To wrestle free and control a historically relevant market from (spies) is dangerous (wink). What's your remedy to such and such, and this and that, as such; I have my website. I like poetry, I like music, I like science that I can do etc. What I can share is what I see in others which is people wrestling free and controlling historically relevant markets from these parties unknown, hopefully. My point, see your markets develop, see your ego satisfied, and you will see "aberrations" in the public in all likelihood sponsored by the state. Sheesh. What if you had to punch someone? Sheesh Brandon. Sheesh is right, how about geeze? Geeze! I don't value anything like that but sheesh. I had to call the cops because someone tried to beat me up. If you control a share of the market and you are not a (cough, wink, nod) (spy) you may have to (cough, nod, wink) (fight one). Geeze Brandon, call the cops! You better believe it.

Geeze, the 2nd Amendment! There you go...(an assailant.)

Listen up America. I was hoping this amendment could be avoided and never even mentioned. I have my skit Contra One where I discuss the power of the first and fourth amendment. I had to use the second amendment the other day (against, an assailant.) The second amendment is not the fourth amendment. It doesn't mean I have property. It means I have the right to strike you through the law. I believe in weapons safety because I'm a former cop in the military. You own a gun through the fourth amendment. You're allowed to strike someone with a gun through the second amendment. It means if we're done talking, I'm going to strike you and I'm never done talking even if blows land because I do not value a street fight. I value weapons safety through the law. That's me!

Furthermore, do these assailants have a shield? And are they trying "to fight" alpha-numerically through society? Through characters that correspond to one another, again, alpha-numerically: when you are here, Brandon, I have someone there that corresponds to you. So that I can say stuff to you through a public lie. Geezus Christ!

12/01/2021

I decided to post a few new poems and a book promotion for the holidays. The poems may be difficult for some people to understand and some people may find them interesting. Why? Because I like to scribble my poetry. The lines in these poems are recalculated...which is why some of the lines look like they have been added up or subtracted because you can count the number of letters in a poem and it will be almost musical. In addition to the problems I have had in society recently, the poems are alpha-numeric also. I like to count the number of letters in a line of poetry and, when you do, it becomes music; then, I reorganize the line and it becomes poetry. Eventually, I left a little music in the poetry which makes it The Scribbling of my Former Self-We're almost there people, hopefully, now doing good.

12/15/2021

I posted an article on to my index pages that has been tucked away here in my business journal from March of last year. I wanted the ideas in the article to be a little more open to newer readers here at riddleversecomics.com. I've been doing research into regional struggles through history between government and people and I found it empowering because governments cannot control the region that well through an offense that affects people from around the world (I know it's pretty extreme but the word I'm implying is "indoctrination," again, geeze.) A street fighter like Samson can protect people from other countries because a true weapon affects everyone. Which is a little comical to me because it means let's fight over the land through unarmed combat. My point, just beware of goons and road thieves America and friends here and abroad. The world is really dangerous right now but no one has to take orders from anyone who doesn't have a shield. Okay? An army man or woman wears armor. Enough said I guess.

I Can Still Fight Through Plain Yogurt: a micro-skit by Brandon Lund

Do you believe your agents can stop me, even now, by comparing tomatoes and raisins through high fructose corn syrup, alpha numerically? Sorry, but I no longer have pre-diabetes according to my doctor because my weight is officially 198 pounds and I am 5'10". And how about your cunning deployments through famous literature using terrifying East German composers? Do you think I cannot reassemble the poems myself, again, alpha-numerically, without your agents frightening me with a version of the poems through music? Your deployments are cunning, through an agency, because they span the centuries but my heroes do not lie to me through the centuries either, as you do. Just try releasing a dance number through rock and roll only to be reassemble through children's literature (centuries later), in order to deny me history through a spy who is using the alphabet, and I will be watching you through history. Do you think that no one can tell that many popular musicians and children (who are still learning how to read) do not fully understand their signature? That is still normal. It may take twenty years to figure out that stuff. It takes composure even though you still have a signature through dance though it is performance based. Consider this the first of many lawful circumstances that have been declared publicly. I do not believe in Norse Mythology (or Greek Mythology) as being comparable to World Religion and the answers that I have been using to debate hold water through institutions of Higher Learning and independent voices from the Public. Again, attack me with Ketchup and I will expose your Raisin based Steak Sauce as fraudulent through history! Those notions of history are Mythological through ideas such as Fairy Strength. That is fraudulent. And you are using important people through history to do it. You did not invent the land through Ketchup and Raisin based Steak Sauce! My point, is that I like a little less sugar in my diet now and I know how important it is no thanks to you (as if it was offered). This is Brandon Lund saying pass the plain yogurt when you're done because I can always eat a little more of that.

Embedded Tweet: "Lots of information about recent developments in data collection by powerful agencies. Wanted a little more about the immersive aspects involved in data collecting on people." Brandon Lund @bjlund12345

Listen up readers, why not? I use increasingly defensive measures, now, which is why I can still post. Which is why I will always post as long as the threats remain implied instead of literal. I don't see any public figures who are armed stopping me from anything I do. Question? Do you think that an agent of agriculture lies about wildfire? Or an investigator who is in service to an agency lies about crime? Or that an agent who is "central" lies about warfare? How about those whom have been ousted by a rival government such as native people? Do you think an agent who focuses on indigenous people lies about the people of a former government? They're all pretty influential: personally, I think the central agencies and the investigative agencies are the most important. War and crime are very powerful agents of the mind. How about a ministry of government? Do you think the agents and agencies involved lie about the divine purpose of a certain group of people? Such as gift giving from an ally through a ministry. Let's take things slowly, together, one step at a time. Does anyone really want to be the nail that is hammered down? That's not that polite but that is how it often seems, like the proverbial hammer does not hammer down the just and unjust alike.

Good news! Just added a new widget to the sidebar: "Pasadena, An Un-ticketed Event," was selected as a semi-finalist for the Vienna Indie Short Film Festival. What a great story to tell! The short film is along the sidebar here as well if you'd like to watch it on my website. I hail thee!

I decided to update the widget, "Wild Children, Crazy." Enjoy the new drum track and melody that were added. I bought a new instrument that allows me to program a beat and I had a lot of fun updating my notes with a new clef for drums. The sheet music for this song now has a bass clef and a drum clef. That'll work I bet. I think this track should pan out as cool enough for me to post.

Small update. I had to garble up the phone number on 5/31/2020; prank caller, dodge. I also removed the HTML for 10/04/2021 that I copied/pasted from Twitter and just kept the tweet that I posted. Also, keep an eye out for new poetry in the future. Normal business.
