

Brandon Lund
(Former St. Omitted)
Los Angeles, CA (Former zip code omitted)
(Former Phone Number Omitted)
www.riddleversecomics.com

February 27, 2011

(Agency omitted)
(Agency address omitted)
Los Angeles, CA (Agency zip code omitted)

(Agency name omitted):

I am seeking representation for a feature length screenplay titled, "When Gina Bounced." My name is Brandon Lund and I would like to start a professional dialogue with (Agency name omitted).

My journey as a writer began while I was a young man in the military. My job as a security policeman provided sufficient down time for me to establish a creative landscape that was large enough to create stories of depth and character.

After my four years were complete, I relocated to Arizona in order to study Literature formally. Within the halls of ASU, I challenged the many assumptions within the university regarding what was and was not Literature. In doing so, I crafted a creative writing voice that feels unique although it grew in tandem with many great talents both in and out of academia.

"When Gina Bounced" is a love story about kindred souls that must struggle to stay together because the world has grown corrupt. The story of Elliot and Gina lives within the back drop of The Muse Mansion, which is an otherworldly realm responsible for providing inspiration to the world. The Muse Mansion has grown silent and barren. Inspiration has ceased to exist. Two lonely keeps, determined to do good, rattle the world by introducing both creativity and chaos. The muses come alive, light and airy. The consensus among the muses is that only great heroes can champion great love and thereby inspire the world to be good.

Elliot, both handsome and poor, seems an unlikely candidate. But the simple gesture of paying Gina's bus fare as she flees her tyrannical fiancée Knuckles Tony immediately casts him into the role. Elliot is determined to set Gina free; to do so however, he will have to face Tony and his brutal enforcer Rock-head. The muses of creativity and chaos get involved in the struggle, which results in a final showdown wherein Elliot and Gina must stand together or lose everything to the darker impulses of human nature.

Thank you for taking the time to read my cover letter. I hope the synopsis proves to be full of character.

Sincerely,

Brandon Lund